DiscussIT Topic 6: Where is our country headed?

Discuss IT Topic: Over the last week, our country has had growing concerns on immigration bans, border safety, and executive orders that remind us of issues that have been plaguing our country for years. Now that Trump has been elected President, there has been people threatening to blow up the White House, human right protests, and a plethora of other sensitive subject matters that are very compelling to individual groups of people. Why have these issues come up now as we head into a time in which it seems no one is going to be happy with the outcomes? Will this create a split in this country and place citizens against one another when it comes to their views? In your opinion, what other topics are at the forefront of concern? Explain...

Response: Please make sure all grammar, spelling, indentation, and punctuation is correct.

Now that we have a new president all these issues have risen. I do believe that not everyone will always be happy because it is impossible to have a whole nation agree on one thing. Will these problems create a split in our country? Yes, of course it will. The split is already there regardless of the way you see it, we have different groups of people (Latin, LGBT, Blacks, etc.) who are coming together to protest against the United States president. Although it may seem like it's not a split because these groups are joining as one the protests are splitting up the country as a whole. Many topics are at the forefront of concern, I think the topics that are being discussed the most are immigration laws and LGBT rights.
